

Driver Request service terms of use

Alientech srl grants You a personal, non-exclusive, non-sublicensable and non-transferable license to use the Drivers to edit modified files. Drivers are provided "AS IS" and / or "as available". The customers / tuners are hereby notified that by using these Drivers they assume any responsibility and that Alientech srl expressly disclaims any other warranty, express or implied, as provided by law, custom, and usage, including (but not limited to) warranties of integration, quiet enjoyment, satisfactory quality or fitness for a particular purpose.

For more information, refer to the ECM Titanium Software License available at www.alientech-tools.com/legal.

The requests forwarded through the Driver Request service for the development of new Drivers not included in the Driver List of the ECM Titanium Software, updating and / or correction of already existing Drivers, will be studied and analyzed: Drivers will be developed, updated and / or modified by Alientech srl according to its technical resources, availability of personnel and in chronological order of receipt of the requests.

Alientech srl makes every effort to reply to a Driver Request within a reasonable time, without ensuring the effective provision of a Driver, either new or modified, within a specific period of time, or that its development is actually possible.

BY USING THE DRIVERS REQUESTED THROUGH THE DRIVER REQUEST SERVICE AND / OR DOWNLOADED WITH ECM TITANIUM SOFTWARE, YOU EXPRESSLY AGREE TO BE BOUND BY THESE TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

These Terms and conditions of the Driver Request Service were last updated on May 6, 2019.